DARWIN TULIPS

These glorious Tulips can be seen during the month of May, thousands of them in every large estate that boasts of the beauty of its year-round wealth of flowers, and hundreds in the gardens of smaller home owners, whose limited space controls their enthusiasm and prevents their planting more.

Plant Darwin Tulips in September, October, 6-8 inches apart and 4-5 inches deep. They make a splendid showing in large beds, or in irregular lines 20-30 inches wide, bordering the House or Shrubby.

Single Early Tulips

Single Early Tulips comprise a useful class of bulbs as they flower during the month of April in advance of the Darwin and other late blooming varieties. The bulbs should be planted about four inches deep in fairly good soil, better singly at a distance of about 8 inches apart, or in small groups of three or four at twelve inches apart. This latter method is very suitable when the bulbs are to flower in borders in which perennials or other plants are already growing. The varieties offered below include a good variety of colors and will present a very attractive appearance at a time of the year when there is very little else to brighten the garden. They are very suitable for forcing in greenhouse or growing in pots for early indoor decoration.
